

We proudly present:

We proudly present: Our mechanics crew The worst thing they had was on their first day. An Ami 6. But the main problem was not to change the clutch, the real problem was to get rid of the pre-ervative. But this fact is well known at 2CV drivers. Repairing is easy and seems to be a daily routine but cleaning your hands seems to be like landing on the moon for the very first time. The hit list of the existing problems is the ignition anyway. Number two are the breaks and the carburettor. But don't worry, our mechanics are used to this and intrigued by their work. The fault frequency depends not on the biorhythm of the 2CV it depends on the owner's. In the early morning there is not much going on at the workshop but in the later morning more and more people come to repair their problems. So if you have a problem you should come round 9:00 a.m. Whoever has a problem should come before 7:00 p.m.

Snow at the Wordmeeting!

Then the Skier came

For people who don't know what Superfinns are: Every two years Finish 2CV drivers organise a wintry Scandinavian trip all the way up to the Northcape or somewhere else in the high North. After this Raid Laponie the members become Superfinns. But to become a real Superfinn they have to read out a text in totally slang language. To show the members how the others look like in their summer outfits there is a Superfinn-party at every world-meeting. At this party they also get a document in the local language they have to read out loudly. A very popular spectacle for everybody. This time the reading was not on the ground level. This time they stood on a mountain of snow. Suddenly there was this big mountain of snow in the middle of the meadow. So what do people do when there is snow in the middle of the summer? They start a snowball fight and use the snow for cooling down their quick tempered heads or as in our case go skiing.

Rectangle version of a HY
The first example was seen on a French junk yard, sometime in the early 90's. It looks kind of sick with his rectangle frontlights. The man from the junk yard was laughing when we photographed this car. I am sure he still remembers this scene but a piece of the HY history seems to be forgotten. But suddenly I discover this one HY at the far end of the area. Whoever wants to reproduce this: The support for the floodlights have to be made longer so you don't have bend the metal.

„Everything could be a 2CV“

Everything could be a 2CV
Christof Schelbert, the man behind the cartoons.

Whoever believes to know the cartoons we printed in our news is right: You are right. Most of them are from the famous Swiss designer Christof. Frequently seen in the 80's and some 2CV magazines but very often in the Döschwo-Zytig we brought them back while stealing them. First we left guilty because we did not know who we could ask if we were allowed to print the cartoons. Later we had the chance to ask Christof just a few minutes after his arrival in Seeboden. There wasn't a stone left standing when Christof allowed us to use his cartoons for our newspaper. In the morning you can find him at the flea market behind a small table with his new book. The name of the book is 2CV & 2CV (136 pages, ATS 150,-) It has got a blue and yellow cover and „The cartoons are new, I draw them from 1995 to the year 2000 after a little break. My first number of cartoons ended with the Worldmeeting in Haslital and I had a long break of two years since 1991“. Some ideas just need a lot of time to be realised, others are spontaneously. Christof is working as a designer and lecture at the high school of Basel for creation art. „There are many conferences, but most of them bore to death“.

But I am sure you know how he uses this time. He bought his first 2CV at the age of 20 when his father changed the car, an Austin Mini. Right now he is the proud owner of a Belgium 2CV from 1959. His second 2CV is a 1986 2CV but he also owns another one which is a kit. At this one he is just using new spare parts. „Straight from the factory, build in 2010“. Right Christof is one of the people who take things easy and stays relaxed. There is only one thing he can't stand: „Getting up early because of the flea market“. Christof Scherblet first book is also still available.

Games yesterday, games today

Yesterday everybody wanted to take part at the Gaudiwuzler (the funny way of a table football). The Gaudiwuzler is exactly the same as a normal table football, just taller and with persons who move sideways. To prevent that anybody gets hurt the field is like a big air mattress. The parts of the dynamo speed changing was ways smaller. The grown ups could do this in only 1 min. and 37 sec. The winner of the match was Julien Imbs (F) and Tjerk Boersma (B) followed by André Masure (B). Tomorrow there will be a 2CV slalom. Each country should announce only two participants at the information tent.
